It's not every day that we get to revisit a truly exceptional landmark; luckily, we were granted this very opportunity when we were invited to visit the Merdeka 118 tower, where we not only got a glimpse of the exceptional scenery, but also a first look at the nearby soon-to-be-reopened Stadium Merdeka. We took a trip down memory lane and revisited the glorious history that the stadium was witness to.

Not only is it being restored to its former glory, the stadium is also being placed under conservation, with PNB as its sole custodian. You can be a part of history as well if you visit on 17th August, when the Stadium will fully reopen and host The Sultan of Selangor's Cup (TSSC). The public is welcome to participate in events, volunteer, and attend different programmes. The Stadium Merdeka social media pages provide information for your reference. Check out the reel below to see the stadium come to life, as well as a first look at the view from the top floor of Merdeka 118:
